facility, coupled with an award-winning staff, provides customers with a one-stop shop. TMI specializes in course design, instructional development, conducting and managing instructional programs, as well as multimedia and stand-alone video production. TMI also offers video teleconferencing services through an on-site studio with the latest technical equipment. This provides training and communication for a fraction of the cost of face-to-face meetings.

The TMI Multimedia team also provides all video/digital imaging services "from script to screen". From the pre-production process through post-production finalization, TMI uses the latest technology and equipment for "in the field" location shooting as well as studio/greenscreen "in-house" productions.

"Our multi-talented team of professionals inspires dynamic and creative products," says Jim King, Multimedia Producer. TMI's expertise will always meet your requirements on time and within budget." ■
